Reflections . . .

Reflection, fired by the end of sixty years of growth, development, and perfecting, brings the realization that Vancouver College has come a long way. Looking at the physical appearance - the wide open field, the modern architectural beauty of the Brothers' Residence, the spacious parking lot - it is hard to believe that sixty years have elapsed. During these sixty hard yet glorious years the roughness and crudeness gradually took form, to become what we have today. This is our sparkling anniversary to celebrate this development. Time has refracted itself through our history and has resulted in the everlasting radiant DIAMOND.

The history of Vancouver College resembles that of the most brilliant gemstone - the diamond. Like the diamond, Vancouver College was at first rough and unshaped, although deep inside it was clear and perfectly ordered. Its full worth lay hidden beneath a protective cover of solidity. But as each facet was cut, year by year, its glory was made visible. This change was gradual but steady - almost imperceptible. However, we need only compare the Vancouver College of today with that of 1922 to see the immense growth that has taken place. This growth had not been merely an increase in the number of buildings but a growth in the ability of Vancouver College and the Christian Brothers to offer the students the opportunity to develop the intellectual, moral, social, and spiritual qualities necessary for a Christian.

As of now, all facets of the diamond have been cut. The previously hidden light has been revealed, projecting its rays in every direction. We have unwrapped the academic, athletic, and artistic potential of Vancouver College. Our strength is represented by the hardness of our beautiful anniversary gem, the diamond. The diamond marks our spirit. Let all its qualities pilot us to our final goal, perfection.

The magic of the yesteryears

Efforts to attract the then Christian Brothers of Ireland to found a school in Vancouver date back to 1906. Reverend Father Welch's very honest appeal was repeated in 1912 but to no avail. Finally in 1922 at the urging of Archbishop Casey, Br. Hennessy acceded his request and sent Br. Michael J. Lannon with a staff of three; Br. Reid, Murtagh and Keane to open a school. On Sept. 5, 1922, 91 courageous pupils presented themselved for instruction at the temporary accomodation secured at the building on Richards St. today known as Rosary Hall.

The welcome response and the ever increasing enrollment gave Br. Lannon the task of finding a site compatible with his grand vision of Vancouver College. By the time the school moved to its campus in Shaughnessy Heights with the erection of 60,000 dollar Lannon Hall, the enrolment had shot up to more than 200. Despite the increased facilities, the Brothers were still unable to meet growing demands.

Mr. J.D. McCormack, who previously provided funds for the construction of the first Brother's residence and boarding accomodations for thirty boarders, came forward again with the magnificent gift of the new wing which now bears his name.

Meanwhile, the graduation classes were proving that the education College provided was of the highest standards. An average of 75% of the class passing was maintained.

By 1928, registration reached 300, and "we want 400" became the slogan of every boy as he went home for the summer holidays of 1928, spreading the message of the marvels of Vancouver College. The key figure in the school's formative years was Br. Michael J. Lannon, who was principal from V.C.'s founding through 1928, and again from 1930 to 1933.

Just when the Brothers thought they could relax, the Great Depression set in and registration plummetted. The bleak years of the depression from 1933 to 1939 coincided with the term in office of principal Brother C.C. Sterling. With the aid of Senator Pat Burns, lots south of Fortieth Avenue were added to the campus in the early Thirties. But College suffered with the rest of the nation. Registration sank to 200 and below and remained there during this period. Each year developed its own financial crisis, often resolved by selling another lot on Forty-first Avenue.

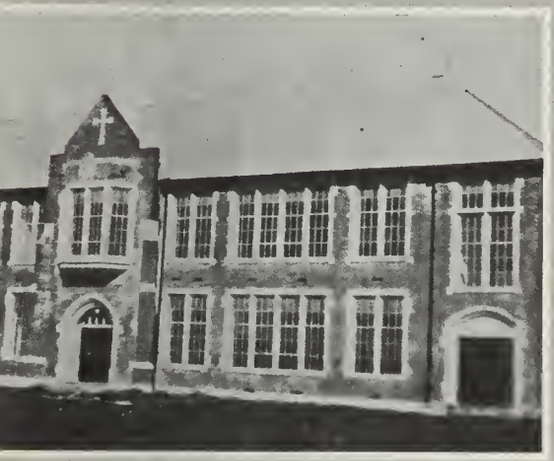
During the early Forties a number of happenings occurred. In 1939, Br. Eamon B. Walsh returned to V.C. to take over as principal. He was the right man at the right time. The first year of his six year principalship came at a time when the pace of life was quickening with the beginning of the Second World War. The school shook off debilitating effects of the past years: enrolment climbed, a cadet corps was formed as a wave of patriotism swept the land, football and basketball competition was stepped up. The war years provided V.C. with a sense of purpose and with a momentum that propelled the institution into the second major phase of its development.

Almost on the stroke of midnight Dec. 5, 1946 the dreaded cry of "Fire!!" was heard in the corridors of V.C. There ensued the wildest night ever experienced in the life of the institution. The flames were first sighted coming out of a ventilator.

Brother Johnson was awakened, the alarm sounded and the boarders aroused. The slate-shingled roof prevented the flames from breaking into sight until going at a full intensity. In the rain the following morning everything look black indeed. No one had been hurt, but resident students had to seek lodging with sympathetic neighbours until McCormack's top storey was restored.

The third floor was never rebuilt; the building was merely given a new flat roof. The total damage was estimated at approximately $50,000. Despite this fact, pupils coming for classes later that morning appeared surprisingly jubilant(?). This incident dampened the hopes of sports enthusiasts as plans for erecting a gym had to be temporarily shelved. However by 1951, the long-awaited gymnasium, built with the assistance of V.C.'s alumni, opened for student, alumni and faculty use.

Br. Bates took office in 1955 when the facilities of the College were beginning to be overstrained. Enrolment was well over 600.



Classes were completely filled and applications were outnumbering the places available. Vancouver College was once again unable to meet growing demands. With a $125,000 donation from Henry L. Mackin, another hall was built to provide extra space for classrooms and a new cafeteria. Enrolment leaped to 850 by 1959. The gymnasium was expanded in the early Sixties, and later the fourth wing of teaching areas, Nichol Hall, was erected.

During Br. Finch's term (1960-1966) Nichol Hall and the extension to the gym added valuable space to the College complex. During Br. Bucher's administration, (1967-1975), the first floor of McCormack Hall was carpeted and re-designed in an open-area style so that the five classrooms opened on the new elementary school library. In 1974 the students' residence was completely redesigned, Brother Estrada being responsible for the design.

In 1975, Brother Bates who had been principal from 1954-1960 again assumed the reins of office for two years. During this time the tennis courts were moved to the east side of the gym. Brother Bates resigned in 1977 and was replaced by the Dean of Studies, Brother Michael A. Maher.

Br. Maher's term of office has been almost entirely associated with building and construction. In 1978, the Junior Resident Students Dorm on the third floor of McCormack Hall was closed, and a faculty room, Library, seminar room and elementary change room were built in its place. Three classrooms replaced the Library - seminar room complex on the second floor and a beautiful little chapel took the place of the faculty room. During the 1978-79 school year, a master plan was drawn up for the future development of the College's campus - the first phase of which was to be the new Brother's residence which was ready for use by September, 1981. The field was completely redeveloped and seeded. In addition bleachers covering a bunker were placed between the gym and the field. Early in August, 1981, St. Michael's Hall, the old frame building which had served as the Brothers' residence since 1924, was torn down to be replaced by a parking lot. In order to provide funds for these and other ambitious undertakings, the Vancouver College Foundation carried on the Diamond Jubilee Campaign during the 1980-81 school year.

What is Vancouver College? This question can hardly be answered through historical references alone. It is an academic institution dedicated to preserve, transmit and extend man's knowledge. More often than the student body realizes, it is a community working on several levels cooperatively: moral, academic and social. The important feature of Vancouver College is its privilege to unfold to its students the doctrine of the Church and the value and meaning of the Church's ceremonies. Moral training is just as important for the student of the first grade as for the matriculation student. If the seeds of Christianity be not planted in the early season, they may never reach their maturity before the chilling blasts of winter destroy their tender growths.

To these tasks, College has grown, throughout the past 60 years to high standards of teaching abilities; academic and moral, physical and cultural.

FACULTY

"Master, teach us to pray . . ."

From the arrival in Vancouver in 1922 of four Christian Brothers of Ireland, headed by Brother Michael J. Lannon to the present-day renovation accomplishments lead by Brother Michal A. Maher, Vancouver College has been blessed with responsible principals dedicated to the development of men.

Brother Lannon, principal for the first eleven years of College developed a concern for the spiritual, the academic, the cultural and the athletic which has characterized the school ever since. He personally produced the Bard's plays for audiences at the old Orpheum Theatre.

In 1928 Brother P.B. Doyle succeeded Brother Lannon as principal, but Brother Lannon was back from 1930 to 1933. Brother C.C. Sterling had the task of being principal during the majority of the thirties, then turned over the school to his successor Brother E.B. Walsh, in 1939. Brother Walsh served V.C. for 28 years as an administrator and teacher. He began collecting funds for a gymnasium, a facility that had been dreamed of since V.C.'s conception.

Br. M.D. Cunningham succeeded him. During his term, in 1946, the top floors of McCormack Hall and the original wing caught on fire and was thus rebuilt.

College continued to grow during the principalship of Brother W.C. Penny (1948-1954) as the long-delayed gymnasium was built along with tennis courts in front. Brother J.C. Bates became principal in 1954. With the aid of Henry J. Jackin, the east wing of the school, Mackin Hall was built. A black top play area and drain tiles beneath the College field also upgraded the institution.

Brother F.R. Finch (1960-1966) added extra locker and shower facilities above the entrance of the gym and Nichol Hall was opened in 1964. Brother J.B. Clarkson served as principal from 1966 through till 1968 and Brother H.L. Bucher succeeded him. Brother Bucher carried out extensive interior renovations including a resource centre for the elementary and an expanded library for secondary students. Brother J.C. Bates

We sincerely wish to express our thanks and gratitude to all these men before and men to come. For without their helpful guidance V.C. would not be the remarkable institution it was, is, or will be.

Dear Friends:

This Diamond Jubilee book is an attempt to reflect the growing and thriving spirit of Vancouver College. It is a spirit that dips gently into the past to recall our roots and it is a spirit that glows with expectation for the future.

Most of all it is a spirit which fuels our present to continue the insistence on Catholic moral and academic education. Our greatest ally in our quest has been and always will be the parents of the boys who pass through our halls. We live in times that seem to scorn the traditional appreciation for the strength of the family. And the times seem to laugh mockingly at us for daring to stand for love and honour among men.

But when the excitement and enthusiasm of youth begins to find its perspective in life, the vision of our youth will be shaped by the lessons of love and honour learned in the family and nurtured in the school. We are proud of our part in articulating this vision in an educational context and we are proud of the confidence the parents have seen fit to extend to us over the years. To all who have been a part of our past we voice a hearty thank you and to you who will join in our future we voice a hearty welcome.

Sincerely,

Michael A. Maher, C.F.C., M.A.

. . . and I took the road less travelled by . . .

The students at Vancouver College come from every corner of the world and from every nook of cultural uniqueness. The result is that by Grade 12 a distinctive group of individuals has evolved, producing winning teams, excellent plays, outstanding academic grades and, because boys will be boys, quite a few headaches for the Brothers.

Graduates of the College have filled positions in nearly every job imaginable, and have kept the high standards demanded of them at the College. All have excelled in their fields, whether it be politics, journalism, football, or business.

Some College graduates have also come back to serve Christ in the community by joining the priesthood or a religious order. Among them is Archibishop James Carney, circled below.

THE DIAMOND GRADUATES

The perfection of a diamond reflects the glorious completion of twelve years of schooling during which every facet of our minds were shaped, cut, and given its chance to develop. As Vancouver College celebrates the diamond anniversary of its establishment, we, graduates of 1982, rejoices over our DIAMOND GRADUATION.

In the hands of the Christian Brothers and teachers, every graduate experienced the keen guidance and thoughtful tutorship. Like a crude gem, it takes a master's hands to shape us into the correct dimensions of an educated Christian but more importantly, a gentleman. And though not every one of us is of A-1 in cutting or color, nor can we be priced like the "Star of South Africa," each one of us glows and glisten in a very particular way.

Sure enough, the process of perfecting a diamond goes through phases of difficulties as well. The essays have impossible deadlines. Assignment topics seem far removed from reality. The books in the library on that topic have been stolen years ago. If the book is available, the pertinent section may be on the missing pages. Tests, planned and otherwise, are a regular feature of student life. Mini-report cards, for some, results in standard committee; final exams leave students drained of the ability to speak or write coherently. Unpleasant experiences with teachers may symbolically represent by flying chalks and ear-breaking holler. It makes us realize that all of us are human beings. Students coming to school in the Vancouver weather by bus, for some even from sub-urban cities like Surrey or Delta, may not all be "Singing in the Rain" . . . So why do Vancouver College grads look back on these years so fondly?

Perhaps, the happy reminiscences are of the paralleled growth: spiritual, social and intellectual growth. It is a time of great excitement, for our curiosity is being satiated. Bits of knowledge, impressions and theories are fitted together. The world becomes more manageable, more understandable. No price can be affixed to those sweeping years that encompass great expanses of time and space and bring the world into our grasp.

The growth, whether painful or joyous, is worthwhile. It is a growth that, once started, cannot be arrested upon graduation.

We took this rare group of 12 year men as one example, for they have been in College for the longest period of time. Look at the diversity among the nine men: Albert Budai, Joel Dumaresq, Mike Lee, Mike Green, Mike Stack, Jamey Koch, David Gray, David Christie, and David Rally.

Yet, they are only a small part of a strong stone. Together we make up a brilliant gem of qualities. With these qualities, we shall constitute our very own sparkle to society and make this world brighter. We cannot help doing that because we are the DIAMOND GRADUATES, and DIAMONDS ARE FOREVER.

RONALD SEBASTIAN ADAIR

Five years ago from Holy Trinity School, Ron started a very "enjoyable" life at V.C. We are expected to plan our lives, or at least put a semblance of order into them while we are here. That expectation does not sound unreasonable until we actually try it. Ordering one's life necessarily implies eliminating some options. That can be a painful, limiting process at a time when we are told that the universe awaits our commands.

When one of us is successful, it is a victory for all. And when one of us behaves foolishly, the shame is shared by the community of students. We strain towards adulthood and acceptable modes of behaviour. Yet, we rebel against the mold we see laid out for us. We want answers, and have to settle for living in tension . . .
. . . We live from dilemma to dilemma.

Tomorrow, and tomorrow, and tomorrow,
Creeps in this petty pace from day to day
To the last syllable of recorded time,
And all our yesterdays have lighted fools
The way to dusty death.
Life's but a walking shadow, a poor player
That struts and frets his hour upon the stage
And then is heard no more. It is a tale
Told by an idiot, full of sound and fury,
Signifying nothing.

ELEMENTARY

"In all departments of the school, the man will be fashioned in the boy, and by the teaching of basic principles, high ideals and moral conceptions will be supported and fostered."

Following the theme of this advertisement for the College grammar school in 1927, particular attention has been paid to the religious, academic, and especially the athletic development of the junior students. In 1922, Br. Lannon registered pupils for grades 4 to 9, with a total attendance of 97. Enrollment grew in future years until in 1928 Grade 3 was added, and 165 students attended the grammar school. Through the difficult depression years, enrollment at College sagged and occasionally it was necessary to drop Grade 3 for periods of time. Boys in the primary grades attended Little Flower Academy!!

In the early 1950's, two important decisions were made. In September, 1949, Vancouver College offered classes for Grades 1 and 2. A year later, due to lack of space and the high expense in terms of qualified teachers, Grade 13 was dropped. This now meant that the College student was offered the complete scope of primary and secondary academic education, which insured the continued success of the "Feeder System," whereby the high school will have a constant flow of students familiar with V.C. and its way of life.

Those were the days . . .

From 1922, when they were disturbed by the rumbling of streetcars outside on Richards Street; to 1982 when they are drowned out by the siren of the Fire Hall across the street, the students at College have followed the same routine. Though the material may be different, the desks a bit more comfortable, the bare floor covered with rug, the food more delicious, each student goes through much the same struggle to learn why the earth is round, why Shakespeare wrote Julius Caesar, and what "conjunctions" are.

The dress and hair has changed from knickers and grease to narrow leg cords and styled short hair, and the Brothers from Irish to Canadian, but detentions are still painful just as much now and there is still that math quiz next Thrusday. From September of Grade One to June of Grade Twelve, the student at College will suffer trials and tribulations, frustrations and setbacks yet enjoy dances and pep rallies. As time goes on, he comes to realize his victories and defeats are not as overpowering as he once imagined and he will settle down to steady work. He will then have completed the education that thousands of students all over the world have received from the Brothers.

Resident Students 1982

In September 1981, the Resident Students, new and old, came for a fascinating year in College's dorm. The community of residents, ranging from grades nine to twelve, consisted of students from as far as Malaysia, Mexico, Hong Kong, Cayman Islands, as well as the province of Alberta and far reaching towns of B.C. The boarders' day-to-day routine was supervised under moderators, Bro. Estrada, and Bro. Colford, and assistant moderators, Bill Rogers and Paul Smulders. Prayers in the mornings and evenings, study sessions everyday, daily and weekly cleanups and recreation are part of their school life.

81-82 was another exciting year for the resident students of Vancouver College. Under the direction of moderators Br. Estrada, Br. Colford, Mr. Bill Rogers, and Mr. Smulders, the boarders carried out their daily routines efficiently. This year has been one of growth and understanding, happiness and triumph for them in their home away from home.

JOHN DAVIDSON
CO-CHAIRMAN OF THE
DIAMOND JUBILEE FUND DRIVE

For almost 60 years, Vancouver College has provided education aimed at responsible leadership. We are perpetually striving for the continued excellence of moral, intellectual and spiritual growth.

The Diamond Jubilee Campaign is a program designed to help College successfully reach these goals, presently and in the future. It has also been the opportunity for the community to experience the joy of giving as the Brothers know in educating us, the youth. By this brochure, we aim to thank those who have shown their generous response to the cause and also provoke the well needed support of many others to aid the Brothers in their quest for excellence.

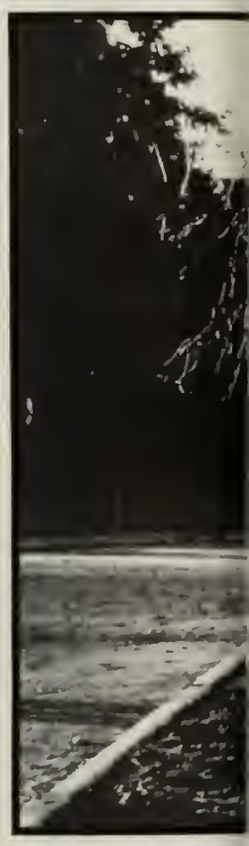
In the spring of 1979, contractors transformed the dull green field into a new striking athletic field. A six-lane rubberized asphalt track now encircles the infield that was built for football as well as field events: high jump, broad jump, pole vault, shot-put, and discus. A double drainage system was designed to dry the field in 20 minutes after a heavy rainfall. The stadium bunker is built with reinforced concrete. Wooden seating gives 600 people a view of events on the field. The 120 foot long structure houses changing rooms and showers for both men and women as well as a built-in address system. Structures of cedar and steel let younger Vancouver College students exercise both bodies and imaginations on the new playground. A fifty-foot long cable ride whisks youngsters across the College's playground. Impact-absorbing material covers the play area to cushion the inevitable falls from equipment.

Climbing, swinging, sliding - all have their place as children become young men through the range of College activities. On September 25th, Father Birch blessed the field with over 600 people viewing. James O'Hagan, a prominent V.C. alumni who gave much assistance in the campaign shared some of his Irish humor with the audience. The track was dedicated in memory of his wife, Frances O'Hagan, and in his appreciation. The Vancouver College Fighting Irish football team of '82 was present to aid the dedication to further sports activities. The vigorous athletic programs, demanding academic standards and sound spiritual guidance all enhance the generous response to the Diamond Jubilee Campaign.

The O'Hagan track was completed with the generous assistance of Mr. C.B. MacDonald of Chevron Canada and Mr. Al Ezzy of Jack Cewe Ltd. The late Mr. Raoul Robillard, directed the design and construction of the turf for the football field.

The warm sun spread a layer of glowing rays over the August sky, bringing alive the Indian summer of Vancouver. That day in the beginning of August 1981 the humble abode of the Christian Brothers of Vancouver College was torn down to become a pile of wooden dust. It was badly in need of repair. The official word from the fire department confirmed opinions that the residence was a serious fire hazard. To replace the old residence the master plan for the new residence was drawn up during the 1978-79 school year. On the 27th of August 1980, the initial foundations for the new residence were laid. The building was erected during that school year and was completed by the summer of 1981.

The successful drive of the Vancouver College Diamond Jubilee Campaign has resulted in the completion of a beautiful and functional residence for the Brothers. The residence was designed by Architect Dan White to accommodate approximately twenty Brothers. Red brick, concrete, glass and red cedar rise from the earth to create the new monument. Contemporary monastic is the design description. Dividers jutting from exterior walls create an atmosphere of solitude. The pond in the exterior of the chapel creates a natural environmental effect. The earth berm surrounding the building keeps out noise from the street and play areas. All these achievements were brought to reality through contributions to the Diamond Jubilee Campaign.



We would like to thank Br. Estrada for all his dedication, time, and effort in the ordering and furnishing of the Brothers' Residence.

Faith in the Future: That's what parents, alumni and friends of Vancouver College have shown in their generous response to the fund drive that has already changed the face of the College campus. Trusting that needs would be met, the College has wasted no time putting gifts and pledges to use.

Overlooking an inner courtyard, designed for silent meditation, are sweeps of tinted glass. Through this glass on the first level, one sees common rooms, a dining room, and a community room with fireplace. All these are on an exposed aggregate floor. The bedrooms for the Brothers are located on the second level which is fully carpeted. A partial atrium runs the length of the residence on both floors.

An idea in the design was that wherever your location in the residence your focus was directed to the inner courtyard and chapel, a constant reaffirmation of solitude and spirituality. Incorporated in the design of the chapel are "crosses" formed in the walls, ceiling, and lights. On September 24th the building received its opening blessing from Bishop Sabitini.

THE ENDEAVOUR

The decision to build new facilities and to remodel portions of the existing plant is the result of careful and detailed study. For several years the present building program has been the subject of analysis by school administrators, the Parents' Organization, the Advisory Board and the Alumni Association. Decisions about the major components of this program reflect the considered judgement and consensus of these groups.

After thorough discussion, it has been agreed that the following program be undertaken:

- [x] Construction of a new residence for the Christian Brothers. This building will include a chapel, community room, dining room and private rooms to accommodate twenty-two. The residence will be located on the west side of campus.

- [ ] The new school cafeteria will be aligned within the quadrangle of Mackin and McCormack Halls. This new dining area will facilitate student body movement during the lunch hour as well as provide a better assembly area for school meetings and special lectures.

- [ ] Renovation of the space of the old cafeteria will allow for the much needed expansion of the elementary library and learning centre. Currently, the elementary library is suffering from over-crowded conditions while its resources are in constant use by the students.

- [ ] Alumni gymnasium will be renovated and have additional space provided. Education facilities will include rooms for music, art shops and the industrial arts.

THE SOLUTION

The Vancouver College Diamond Jubilee Campaign sought to obtain voluntary contributions in the minimum amount of $1,500,000. To date, approximately 90% of our goal has been reached. This money was used to cover the costs of the construction of the Brothers' residence, and will be used to cover the costs for the renovation of the elementary library, and additions and renovation to the Alumni gymnasium. Because Vancouver College has no capital expense funds, the campaign required that the entire amount be raised from alumni, parents, corporations, foundations and friends of the school. Many companies approached were not related at all to Vancouver College but recognized the worthy cause and gave generously. Individuals concerned about the education of youth in an atmosphere of academic excellence, formative discipline, and religious principles, involved themselves as donors and campaign workers.

An Annual Giving Campaign is now established. A donation to the Foundation will provide a strong ongoing base of support and encouragement for the College. The annual gift provides tremendous support. Donations of twenty-five dollars, fifty dollars or more from many friends provides enormous benefits to the students.

THE FUTURE

Vancouver College addresses a new stage of growth, an opportunity to expand the effectiveness of its work in the education and training of young men.

The need for a new residence for the community of Christian Brothers, recognized for many years, spearheaded the new stage of growth. This unique building now provides an essential home for the Christian Brothers, as well as a place for prayer.

The new cafeteria will allow for a healthier dining space for the crowded student body, as well as a facility for special lectures and an assembly hall.

Most importantly, the space provided will allow for re-location of the elementary library and learning centre.

Additions and renovations to the thirty year old Alumni gymnasium will provide space for educational courses in music, the arts and industrial arts.

Provincial funding, which provides helpful assistance in the areas of tuition and operational expenses, does not extend to capital improvements or new buildings. Provincial funding amounts to thirty percent of per pupil costs for public schools. The assistance of provincial funds has made it possible for Vancouver College to maintain a balanced budget in recent years without substantial tuition increases.

The school holds goals up to its students, and it inspires all to reach them in a Christian manner. It endeavors to educate the whole gentleman; no aspect which will aid in the production of a fine gentleman will be neglected.

It will be the school's glory to produce men worthy of the best Catholic traditions and citizens ambitious of the welfare of the community. The student is led to realize his important place in life, his opportunities for service, and to deal with the dangers which will threaten him. He is shown how to equip himself physically, intellectually and spiritually for the great battlefield of life.

It will never be overlooked that, "the child is father to the man."

V.C. ORCHESTRA

It is a source of great pleasure to find a love of music increasing its hold upon the students. That fact stands for increased pleasure in their lives. That music is to be judged of greater worth than a mere furnisher of pleasure is affirmed by Aristotle who deemed music an essential part of education. Even Socrates stood with youthful pupils in order to attain knowledge of its principles.

The Vancouver College band began with a meagre nine participants but soon grew to 45. Instruments consisted of the xylophone, the traps, brass and reed instruments, and many violins, all joining to produce a harmonious euphony . . . sometimes. By 1926, College could boast of the best school orchestra in the city. Throughout the years, outstanding men have led the College orchestras and bands.

Most notable is Professor Talbot who taught violin to large classes of boys in the old handball alleys. Among his successors are Br. Spitz whose band was invited to appear at various functions in 1933, and Mr. Allard de Ridder who brought in 1940 a rich heritage and training in music.

"The stage but echoes back the public voice. The drama's laws the drama's patrons give. For we that live to please, must please to live."

One must remember that academic and physical growth did not satisfy the wants and needs of the student body. The aspect of culture plays an important role in everyday life.

Macbeth in 1924, and Julius Caesar in 1927 drew large crowds from Vancouver to every performance, spearheaded by Br. Lannon. His personal production of Shakespearean plays in the old Orpheum theatre in conjunction with variety entertainment claimed the participation of nearly every boy in the school and established a standard that astonished the large crowds that attended.

Besides exceptional talent, a contributing factor to the success of the plays was the limited opportunities for entertainment, radio being in its infancy and T.V. nonexistent. College received wide acclaim and publicity in the news media of the days and critics could not be more effusive in their lavish praises.

Most recently, for more than a decade, Vancouver College and Little Flower Academy collaborates their efforts to produce professional calibre Broadway musicals. Such shows as FINIAN'S RAINBOW, OLIVER, BRIGADOON, SOUTH PACIFIC, MUSIC MAN, HALF-A-SIXPENCE, ANYTHING GOES!, GOOD NEWS, and twice reviving FIDDLER ON THE ROOF and WEST SIDE STORY, have received tremendous acclaim by local media as Vancouver's best High School productions.

SPORTS

Very early in its history Vancouver College established itself as an enthusiastic contender in every field of sports resulting in a strong, healthy interest among the students in athletics. A person who studies the sports history of Vancouver College is struck by the variety of athletic activities undertaken. Most of these enjoyed only brief periods of popularity and success, and were replaced by others in an attempt to find a basis for competition with other schools. Football and basketball are currently the most prominent sports at the College. The former, football, evolved through soccer, rugby and Canadian football. Baseball and even cricket have had their days at the College, while track now dominates spring activities. Gymnastics was the most consistent sport at V.C., but sadly enough it has relegated to the role of a minor activity. After 60 years of testing and pioneering on the part of V.C. football and basketball have established themselves as the games best suited to the College curriculum.

First introduced in 1928, interest in this sport has been sporadic but sustained.

A school is, basically, a place or institution for teaching and learning. Yet Vancouver College has set itself apart from this definition by being more than just an institution. Vancouver College is a meaningful community of people who wish to develop themselves as educated Christians.

The Jewish term "L'Chaim" sums up what we of Vancouver College believe in. This term means "To Life" and to us life is one of the greatest things that God has given us. The joy of life must be something that we cannot ignore. We must make the most of our lives as Christ wished us to do, and a Christian education is how we may accomplish this. Vancouver College has been doing this for students for sixty years and will continue to do so in the future as long as there are people who believe in educating their total selves.

The primary classes greeted St. Patricks day with song, dance, potato bread, and green. On this day, a tribute was paid to the school's four most "Irish" men: Bro. Breen, Mon. Nichol, Mr. J. O'Hagan, and Father Weilehan. Through the musical guidance and dedication of Mrs. Koch, the primary had a most successful performance, and the Irishmen were thoroughly entertained.

The tenth annual Vancouver College Student Leadership Conference was held on March 12th and 13th. This was an exciting event, presented by the students and graduates of V.C. and L.F.A. It attracted more than 100 participants from the Lower Mainland as well as various sectors of B.C. The conference was formed to develop leadership skills and techniques through the emphasis of developing self-confidence, awareness, the ability to support, the methodology of being positive in thinking and livings, and an appreciation of the greatest value of personhood, which is self. Br. MacKenzie moderated the conference, which was coordinated by V.C. Grade 12 student Ken Kavanagh.

Fresh, rugged, crisp, adventurous exhilerating, exciting: Evans Lake

On March 15, 75 Grade Seven boys travelled to Evans Lake for their annual camp-out. Much to the boys' ecstasy, they found the lake frozen. Their canoe, the St. Roch, went into action again. Breaking through the ice with it was one of their favorite "sports." By the end of the camp, most of the ice was broken up. - Wonder what the canoes were like? The superb weather and breathtaking scenery made up for all the trouble that accompanies the wilderness. Hiking, archery, canoeing, forestry, orienteering, and just plain survival kept the boys very busy.

FINE ARTS

The college band

"Fame," "Copa Cabana," "Rock Around the Clock," are just a few favourites played by the V.C. Band. Led again by Mr. G. Olson, our band ranked superior in the Kiwanis Music Festival - the highest rating given to a band. Approximately 120 boys are enrolled in this program at College. Audiences were always astonished at their professional sound at their many band concerts. A special event which took place this year was an exchange trip to Montreal.

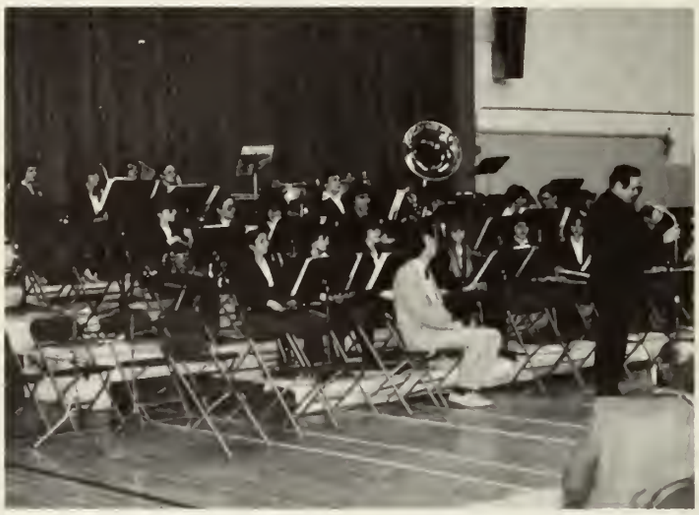
Band is a program which has survived since the very early years of College, this year's band shows that it will last till the very end - forever!

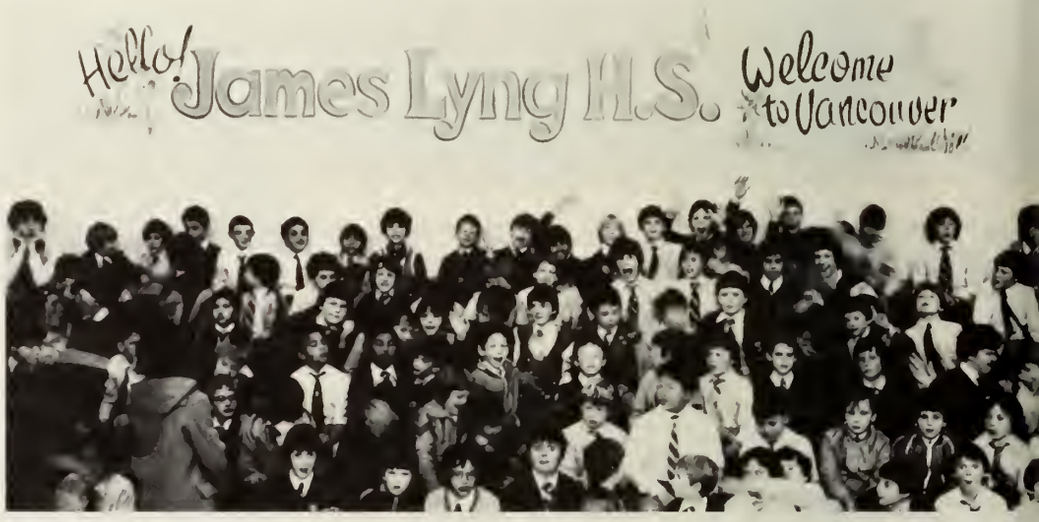
Who is there that, in logical words, can express the effect music has on us?

A kind of inarticulate unfathomable speech, which leads us to the edge of the Infinite, and lets us for moments gaze into that!

Thomas Carlyle

BILINGUAL MUSIC





Forty-one members of the College band spent February 27 to March 6 visiting a Montreal high school. This cultural exchange was partially funded by "Open House Canada," a federal program. It was a first class educational experience for our boys as well as a chance to understand some aspects of the cultural diversity of our country. The exchange school was James Lyng High School, a catholic school located in an industrial area of the older part of Montreal. The College band was able to tour the city as well as the Eastern townships.

Their musical experiences were excellent. In two concerts, which were very entheusiastically received, the bands played both separately and together, the latter arrangement producing the fine rich sound of 76 instruments.

In turn, the James Lyng High School band members toured Vancouver, as well as Victoria. There is no doubt in anyone's mind that this totally successful exchange has given to all who participated some rich and unforgettable educational and cultural experiences.

MARY POPPINS: Elementary musical - 1982

HYDE PARK

On January 28, 29, and 30, the elementary schools of Vancouver College and Little Flower Academy produced the musical play "Mary Poppins" at the Prince of Wales Auditorium. This show, the two schools' last elementary show together, was a gala event. The children astonished their audiences by their talent, vitality, and enthusiasm. As usual the tremendous effort provided by Mrs. Carol Coulson, Mrs. June Koch, Mr. Jim Lattimer, Br. E. Conti, Mrs. N. Sendall, many others, and of course the kids, made the show a smashing success!

Maria and Chino

Riff, Bernardo, Baby John and Action

The collaboration that produced West Side Story was long and painstaking - but the effort has been rewarded. The production took the stage with its engrossing vitality, its audiences by storm. Under the direction and choreography of Grace Macdonald and musical direction of David Fryer, the story came vividly to life at North Vancouver Centennial Theatre.

The production opens with a danced PROLOGUE indicating the bitter tensions between the Jets, a self-styled "American" street gang, and the Sharks a group of young Puerto Ricans. The leader of the Jets, Riff (Colin Carney) swears to drive the Sharks, led by Bernardo (Hernando Cortez Jr.), from the streets. Riff determines to challenge Bernardo that night at a dance in the gym, and prevails upon his old friend and the co-founder of the Jets, Tony (Mike Stack), to help him Bernardo's sister Maria (Kathleen Gilligan), newly arrived from Puerto Rico to marry his friend Chino (Clarence Hui) attends the dance and despite the obvious hatred between the gangs meets Tony, who at once falls in love with her. After deciding a time and place for the rumble, the gangs meet to battle it out under the highway. During the rumble, Riff is knifed, and Tony, told by Maria to stop the fight, grabbing Riff's weapon, knifes Bernardo. Tony returns to Maria to tell her what had happened and clinging together, they envision a place where they can be free from prejudice. Bernardo's girlfriend Anita (Emma Catchpole) knocks at Maria's door, and Tony leaves by the window, taking refuge at Doc's drugstore (V.C. grad, Michael Cliff). Anita upbraids Maria for allowing Tony to come near her, but Maria's answer carries its irrefutable force, and at length Anita agrees to go warn Tony that the enraged Chino is gunning for him. She goes to the drugstore, but is brutally taunted by the Jets for her nationality, and finally spits out a different message for Tony: that Chino has kill Maria in revenge. Doc tells Tony what Anita has said, and Tony leaves his hiding place, wandering numbly on the streets. He runs into Maria, who has been searching for him, but their moment is brief: Chino appears from behind a building, and shoots Tony dead. The stunned gangs, the Jets and Sharks, appear from the shadows and, drawn together by the tragedy, lift up the body of Tony and carry him off.

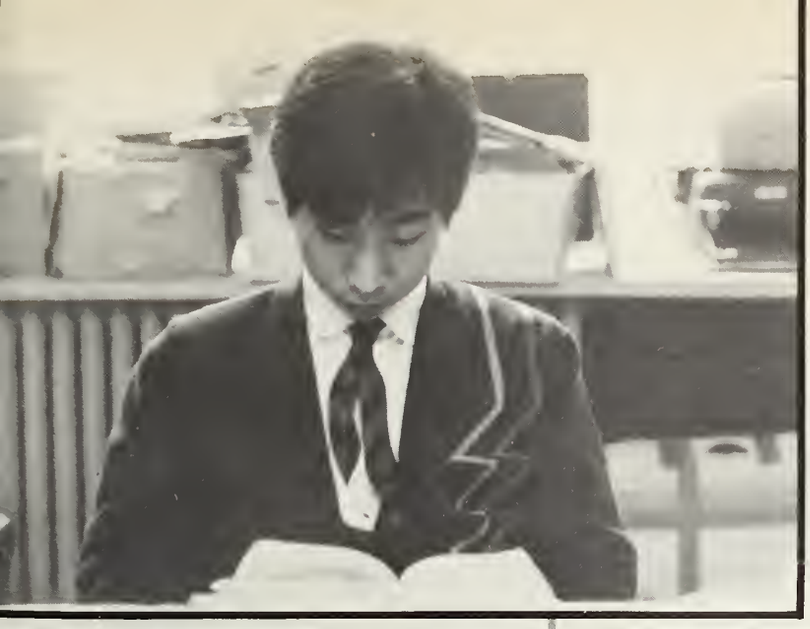
THE COLLEGIAN STAFF '82

The diamond cutters



"Fools rush in where angels fear to tread"

"Perfection"

NO ONE knew that in September of 81 that the road for the Collegian 1982 would be long and hard. Even though most of this year's staff were veterans of the previous book, the trials and tribulations were just as difficult.

Our goal was to graphically portray, in a modern style the life and times of the Collegiate student, keeping away from the monotony of previous set standards. You can notice, by flipping through these pages, the revolutionary style I mean. We bring you more colour, art work, personal meaning, and memories.

The Collegian is a unique activity because it runs throughout the entire school year. Sometimes though, it seems like a full time job. People often don't realize how hard the staff works and how much of a commitment is required. They also don't realize that their year's memories rely on a small group of people who are more often looked down upon than helped.

Editor Hernando Cortez Jr. held most of the book's responsibilities on his shoulders and most of the 'blame' for its uniqueness. Clarence Hui was an assistant editor with constant innovative ideas and style. As we look back upon the 81-82 year, a feeling of accomplishment fills our minds and we hope that memories of it fills yours.

GRADE 8 FOOTBALL: the younger jocks

The 1982 Grade 8 football team posted a 6-2 record. The two defeats coming from the hands of the Notre Dame team. One of these defeats came into Grade 8 championship game. The defense played exceptionally well, keeping the opponents to only one touchdown or less per game. This defense must have been one of the hardest hitting V.C. has seen. The defense was led by Matt Clarke, Mike Guthire, Dean Heffring, Kris Kucera, Kerry Lucas and Roger Slater. The offense used this year was a hard one to learn in one year of football, but was learnt well enough to win the six games and finish 2nd in B.C. The boys should do exceptionally well in JV with another year of this offense.

J.V. Football Team
This year's squad succeeded in restoring respectability among the halls of Vancouver College. Their record of 5-3-1 came as a result of hard work and at times brilliant plays. The team was led by captains Kevin McHugh, Most Inspirational Player, Sean Giefing, Most Improved Player; the team's leading scorer was Tyler Lorenz and their most valuable lineman was Brian MacDonald.

Grade 9 Football Team
Our grade nine football team has the distinctive honour of being the only team in the football program that defeated Notre Dame. Their season was characterized with a most exciting brand of football.

This year's version of the Varsity Football Team had a most successful season, finishing first in the Premier League before losing a hard fought Provincial semifinal to the eventual champions, Kamloops Red Devils. Featuring the spectacular catches of Mike Olma and the all-star defense of Mike Torresan, the Fighting Irish kept up the tradition of beating St. Thomas More, but once again succumbed to the Notre Dame jinx.

WRESTLING 82

This years wrestling team had a very small turnout of only eleven members. Mike Shoeps, Ralph Cerincioni. Lacky Benning, Geof Gray Grant, Cory Smith, Dave Seadon, Kevin Roberts, Jacques Pittet, Marcus Wagner, George Anderson, and Chris Dzieken were the teams members. The team did very well against its competitors from all over B.C. They made a trip to Kamloops for a tournament and fared reasonably well. The team went to some other major tournaments like the B.C. age - class and a good portion of the team made it to the Vancouver playoffs. Four wrestlers from our team made it to the provincials, Dave Seadon, Lackey Benning, Kevin Roberts, and Cory Smith. They travelled up to Kamloops for the provincials, but came back empty-handed. Overall the young team did very well and Coach Anderson is looking forward to having an even better season next year.

Leaders of today!!

Letter men: the spirit leaders!!

To all, the status of being a letterman is very special. Much hard work goes into the letter's achievement. Even though they were slow starting this year, they were finally able to arouse and encourage student spirit. That incredible level can only get better. Their only rule is that spirit comes from the entire student body's help. It must never faulter.

The "VoiCe" of the students

"Improvement and Creativity" have been the goals of the Voice staff of 1982. The Editors, Ken Kavanagh and Felician Teo, have done a notable job in getting out each edition to the student body once every two weeks. Unlike last year, the Voice '82 presented to us an improved version of the newspaper career at V.C. The staff this year is very fortunate in having Bro. Colford as Moderator. With a much larger staff this year, the editors, writers and typists should be credited for a long year of interesting and up-to-date reports and commentaries throughout the terms.

Debate and Speech society

This year the V.C. Debate and Speech Society Presented to us a whole new year of interesting events. Being a novice year for the existence of the society, initiative from the members was keen throughout. The consistently growing interest of the members contributed to the success of the many projected activities within and outside the society. The Debating team finished as one of the top ten teams with Andrew Gilson being selected for the Provincials. The speech team did just as well in an Arts Speech Festival in May. Under the Presidency of Felician Teo, the goal this year had been centered around "Promotion and Organization." The society also owed very much of its success to the guidance and advice of its Moderator and coach Mr. Leo Matusicky.

McGoran places 'First' three times in a row!!

The night of March 16, 82 was an evening of excitement and tension when the selected group of elementary students from all grades competed for the winner's trophy of the Seventh Annual Oratorical Contest. Judges that night were Mrs. June Koch, Mr. Michael Cliff, and Miss Madalena Acconci. They managed to undertake the difficult task to decide on the one overall winner. Finally, David McGoran, by his outstanding performance, resumed that title for the third time. Other finalists were also recognized for their work and talents with trophies.

FRIENDS

"No man is an island," and this is especially true of Vancouver College which depends on the devoted help of friends to assist it in carrying on its work. From Mr. J.D. McCormack in the 1920's to Mr. Henry J. Mackin in the fifties, from a Collegian sponsor to the help of an aiding parent, College has been blessed with the Christian generosity and willingness of its friends. We would especially like to thank those who have and will be helping in any way in the Vancouver College Foundation. We thank you for all your time and effort and contributions to make Vancouver College a better place to develop the man. The new Brothers residence is a physical sign of thanks for all their time to develop us, its students. We, at this time, would also like to thank our advertisers, who have graciously paid for a space in this section so that this whole book, and the thirty before it, may appear as a momento of the sixty years the Congregation of Christian Brothers has been instructing the youth of Vancouver.

ANYTHING LESS THAN A PEEK FREAN BISCUIT IS JUST ANOTHER COOKIE.

PEEK FREAN BISCUITS are not the same as cookies. The odd person, however, simply does not realize that. They believe cookies and Peek Frean biscuits are more or less the same.

But even though the odd cookie may look like a Peek Frean biscuit, the similarity goes no further.

PEEK FREAN BISCUITS ARE NOT THE SAME AS COOKIES.

Now, the differences between the common cookie and Peak Frean biscuits are many. But the easiest way to tell the difference, of course, is to taste a Peek Frean biscuit. We think they taste better. And we think you'll think so too.

THE WAY TO TELL THE DIFFERENCE IS TO TASTE A PEEK FREAN BISCUIT.

The reason for this is simple. We refuse to cut corners simply to reduce the cost of cutting cookies. But then, we don't make cookies, do we? We bake biscuits. And we refuse to sacrifice quality for the sake of cheaper ingredients. We've stayed with our basic recipes because these recipes are good, and we design our ovens in Britain because we believe they design them best. It's painfully simple. We stay ahead in this business, by insisting on staying behind.

WE STAY AHEAD BY INSISTING ON STAYING BEHIND.

That is why Peek Frean biscuits are not the same as cookies. But there is only one way for you to tell. Taste a Peek Frean biscuit. Because once you've tasted Peek Frean biscuits, anything less is just a cookie.

We know small computers.

You can know them, too. Small, personal computers you don't have to be an expert to use. Or a big company to afford. Small computers that could change the way you live, the way you work, the way your children learn. Small computers that could expand your world.

Small businesses can use small computers the same way big businesses use big computers. To manage more effectively, more productively, more profitably. Systems for the independent business or professional person can handle general accounting, process payrolls, bill customers, manage data, make reports. And more.

And a computer for the home may be the most useful appliance in it. To manage the family budget, balance bank accounts, keep tax records, stimulate your children's learning

For business, home or education, the uses for a small computer are as boundless as your imagination.

ComputerLand has the widest selection of personal computing equipment and programs you'll find anywhere. Plus an expert and professional staff. They'll give you a "hands on" introduction to small computers.

Let us introduce you.

And help you find the right solution to your individual computing needs.

With every solution, you also get the resources of ComputerLand. Not only for add-on accessories and software. But for expert advice, maintenance, and service —for all you need to make the most of your computer now and in the future.

If you'd like to know what a small computer can do for you, get to know the people at ComputerLand.

Trueline has built a national reputation by offering a complete range of valves in corrosion-resistant stainless steel. Gates, globes, checks and balls—screwed and flanged—to suit every industrial application. Available through distribution centres from coast-to-coast, Trueline valves are proving their worth in major industrial sites across Canada. If superior valve quality is essential to your operation, be sure to specify Trueline. It's the one "true line" in stainless steel valves.

COLLEGIAN '82

The person who makes a success of living is the one who sees his goal steadily and aims for it unswervingly, that is dedication!

Cecil B. Demille

To persevere,
trusting in what hopes he has,
is courage in a man.
The coward despairs.

In the lexicon of youth there is no such word as fail.
